

Financial Preparations for the Great Reset

What should we expect when the Great Reset happens?

Expect a global financial crash, a global bank holiday, internet down, chaos, wars, persecution, the Black Awakening, etc., followed by a New World Order under the Antichrist and Noahide laws. The process could take weeks or months. Those of us who know the Lord Jesus Christ will not be surprised, and He will be with us, but most people will be filled with fear and/or anger until they have their DNA quantum entangled with the Beast quantum computer system. Then, their thoughts and memories will be changed, so they become docile and completely obedient. This is the Kabbalists' dream - a false messianic kingdom under Noahide laws. People will own nothing and be happy about it. They will have their debts cancelled and have a basic universal income.

Living outside the system

For prudent people who have been anticipating the Great Reset and who choose to live outside the system, there are financial decisions to be made. Most people have some form of paper assets - cash in banks, stocks, retirement funds, etc. After the Great Reset, they may lose all or most of these, so early withdrawal is a prudent choice. As God's people, we must not love money, but we should steward it wisely (Luke 16:10-13). But if we can withdraw savings and investments from the digital system, what do we do with it? What assets can we hold on to?

Precious metal madness

For years, many investors have stored up gold and silver. Gold has been a reserve currency for thousands of years, and silver is perhaps the most undervalued physical asset on earth. People like Theodore Butler have proven that the prices of gold and silver have been suppressed by a concentrated (illegal) short selling on the COMEX for many years through a series of investment banks working on behalf of the USG. It is quite easy to keep the prices low, but eventually prices must rise. But will it be too late?

Property better than metals

Millions of people around the world have been waiting and waiting for prices of gold and silver to rise, but after the Great Reset it will be difficult to cash in and actually use the cash in a practical way. During the time without banking and the internet, there will be no official spot prices. Some dealers will be unable to process transactions without the internet. There may be opportunities to sell gold and silver through an underground economy, but just staying alive in a rural area will be much more important (Proverbs 22:3; Matthew 24:15-21). After the new blockchain internet financial system is introduced, the new system will be cashless, and gaining access will require the Mark of the Beast (Revelation 13:16-18; 14:9-11).

The calm before the storm

If people feel that the Lord wants them to get their cash out of the banks and paper assets, then now is probably a suitable time to do so. However, property in a rural area would be more practical than precious metals. A farm with food and a water source and maybe solar power would be nice, but people in some places may have limitations. The remnant of God's people in some places will need supernatural food - like manna.

Shalom

In any case, do not worry or be afraid or anxious (Matthew 6:25-34; Philippians 4:6,7; 1 Peter 5:7). Just pray and plan and act according to what God says to you. He is with His people. He will not forsake us or leave us (Romans 8:35-39). He will give us guidance and ministry opportunities among others who are suffering (2 Corinthians 1:3,4). If we continue in our faith, we will be able to guide others to a saving faith in Christ Jesus.
